DISTRICT MEET DISCUSS NEEDS OF THE FARMER

Representatives from the Farm Bureau of this district comprising Cuyahoga, Erie, Lorain and Huron counties, met at the court house in court room No. 1, yesterday afternoon to discus a number of subjects of interest to the farmer. President George Cooley, of Dover, presided.

County Engineer, C. M. Theobald gave an interesting and instructive talk on road building and the manner in which the work is being done in Lorain county. He discussed the proper width of roads and the manner of their upkeep. The main market roads in his opinion should not be less than eighteen feet wide, on account of the large amount of traffic, while the less traveled roads could be built ten feet wide. All roads from dirt up to concrete should be kept properly crowned in order to provide drainage. The township trustees were charged with keeping the road in repair, and the ditches open to provide for proper drainage. Engineer Theobald was asked many questions and answered them to the satisfaction of those present.

J. F. Burke spoke on the provisions of the truck bill, which limits trucks to a ten ton load. Under the law the authorities can prevent overloading, especially in moist weather. The penalty for violations of the law are from $25 to $1,000 and the commissioners are required to furnish the money to see that the law is enforced and the sheriff is to provide the deputies.

An informal discussion took place on subjects involving farm produce, elevators, co-operative stores, cooperative selling and other subjects that interest the farmer. It was a successful meeting that was attended by about seventy-five representatives from the district.

DEMOCRATS OF HOUSE TO ACT ON TAX DRAFT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Charging that the tax revision bill prepared by the Republican majority of the House Ways and Means committee fails to give relief to "the poorer class of taxpayers," the Democratic members of the committee voted solidly against the reporting of the bill today. The bill was formally reported out by the Republican majority.

The majority report on the bill, submitted to the House today, declares that tax revision is necessary to aid business in reaching a normal basis in the process of liquidation and adjustment going on now, but warns that strictest economy in government expenditures must go with the tax revision.

The majority report estimates that the bill reduces the tax burden by $790,330,000, approximately $7 per capita or $35 for the average family.

The aim of the bill is to reduce taxes and not to shift the tax burden, the report declared.

PROBE MYSTERY DEATH OF BEAUTY

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—A complete investigation into the death of Mrs. Mary De Brito, former wife of a distinguished Brazilian and winner of several beauty contests will be asked of Coroner Peter M. Hoffman and the police, Mrs. Edward Weller announced today. Mrs. De Brito ended her life in Mrs. Weiler's home by turning on the gas.

It is believed that Mrs. De Brito ended her life because of the threats made against her by the editor of a small magazine.

Several weeks ago Mrs. De Brito obtained a copy of the magazine when traveling on a train. She was so shocked by its contents that she wrote the governor of North Dakota, where the magazine is published, expressing the opinion that the publication should be suppressed.

Mrs. De Brito's letter to the governor was forwarded by his secretary, it is said, to the editor of the magazine.

Soon after her return to Chicago, it is declared, Mrs. De Brito received a vituperative letter from the magazine editor. Later a roughly dressed man called at the Weller home and made inquiries concerning Mrs. De Brito.

Mrs. Weiler believes that the letter and the man so frightened Mrs. De Brito, who was of a highly nervous temperament, that she took her own life.

Many Crooks Freed By Board

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16.—"We propose to begin a searching investigation at once to determine circumstances which surrounded the granting by the old board of paroles to confirmed crooks before going out of office," Governor Davis announced here today. "The people of Ohio have a right to be told what influences have led to the issuance of these paroles and we intend to see, as far as we can, that this is done."

The governor's statements related to newspaper criticism of paroles granted to notorious criminals by the old board of clemency in the last days of the board's existence. The Dunn act, effective July first, providing for reorganization of state departments, legislated the clemency board members out of office and authorized appointment of a new board and superintendent of pardons and paroles.

Governor Davis today reiterated his resolve to "halt the parole evil" and to stop ('the foisting backout of the penitentiary, upon the people of the state, of confirmed crooks."

"It is our firm determination that during our administration there shall be no release from custody on parole of any prisoners, except where the case is clearly meritorious and where there is strong evidence that the prisoner, if given his freedom, will lead a useful, law-abiding life," continued the governor.

The governor said he has approved a plan adopted by Rev. John S. Rutledge, state superintendent of pardons and paroles, which provides that the question of any proposed parole shall be taken up first with a local advisory committee in the county where the prisoner was convicted. Each county is to have such a committee which is designed to afford fullest publicity and to assure that citizens of a community will be consulted as to the advisability of any parole.

During a conference here between Superintendent White, district superintendents and field workers of the anti saloon league, plans were made for a campaign designed to meet "wet propaganda which has been distributed throughout the state to break down enforcement of liquor laws."

GOVERNMENT READY

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The British government is fully prepared to deal instantly with Ireland in the event the peace negotiations collapse, the International News Service was officially informed this evening. The government has outlined the following two alternatives in the event the armistice is denounced:

1—If the Sinn Feiners do not attempt violence Great Britain will institute colony rule in Ireland under the home rule law.

2—If the conflict is renewed all Sinn Feins in Ireland will be put under martial law and all civil governments will be abrogated. Sir Nevil Macready, commander in chief of the British forces in Ireland will be given a free hand with all the men, guns and equipment he desires.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—English soldiers on leave of absence from Ireland were ordered to rejoin their regiments this afternoon.

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—"We mean to fight for our principles; we mean to die for them if necessary" declared Eamon Devalera, head of the sinn fein government in Ireland in opening the session of the dail eireann here today.

Devalera Determined.

"These are our principles too," continued the sinn fein leader. "They are now and always will be."

Silence so deep that one could have heard a pin drop reigned while DeValera was speaking. The sinn feiners declared that it was the best speech their leader had ever made. As Devalera ceased the audience rose in their seats and cheered lustily.

Devalera declared that Ireland must be a republic. "It is practically impossible to negotiate with the present British government," he continued "because it is unprincipled. It is like negotiating with a man with a pistol to your head. We are fighting for human progress and civilization.

"The Irish republic has been sanctioned by the will of the people. The Irish people recognize only the sinn fein ministry and dail eireann as their government."

Devalera continued:

Quotes Lloyd George.

"Premier Lloyd George told American soldiers that they were fighting for the principle ... came to Europe they were ... for the liberty of small nations. The principles that Lloyd George expressed on that day were ours.

"Dail eireann will consider proposals in private and then will communicate the decision at a public session." Devalera said that dail eireann would formulate a reply which would be sent to London.

"The issue at stake," he added "is peace or war with Ireland. The Irish people have not only by their will sanctioned a republic but they have solemly declared that they would give up their lives to make their expression effective.

Stand for Principle.

"We stand for principle."

IDENTIFY GUN IN KENNEDY MURDER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—In a meeting today between Arthur C. Burch, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, and E. Rosenthal, a pawnbroker, who claims to have sold the gun with which Kennedy was slain, District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine believes the state will obtain the evidence which will clinch the state's case against Burch. Rosenthal will be asked to identify Burch as the purchaser of the gun.

Rosenthal late last night identified the stock of a 12-gauge double barreled shotgun that was found in the surf at Santa Monica the morning after Kennedy was slain as that of a weapon he sold to a man between July 25 and July 28. The pawnbroker first was shown pictures of of the gun and later was shown the stock itself. He positively identified it by "unmistakable markings," as that of the gun he had sold.

District Attorney Woolwine arranged to take Rosenthal before Burch today to learn if Rosenthal could identify the accused man as the purchaser of the gun. Burch, it was pointed out, arrived in Los Angeles on July 24.

Business Review Shows Growth In Bank Clearings in Elyria

The Chamber of Commerce semi monthly bulletin states that they are now giving considerable attention to the city's development, and are on the lookout for vacant factory lots and factory space. The credit department is being revised and is proving of benefit to the merchants.

The Chamber also advocates the securing of a boat for the fire department to be used in case of drownings, and promise action will be taken within a short time.

The sewerage proposition is also being given attention, and is being studied by the committee.

Bank clearings for the past two weeks were $736,731.25 as against $576,033.58 the period previous, an increase of $160,697.67. Freight tonnage also increased to $9,115 as compared with $4,840 for the previous period, a gain of $4,840. No change was noted in household necessities. The number of men working in factories showed no increase and the working hours are the same.

The real estate transfers in this city totaled fifteen, which is ten less than last period, and thirty less than a year ago. Communicable diseases are few, there being but three, embracing chicken pox, typhoid fever and tetanus.

The bulletin states that the corn crop promises to be a bumper one, but the potato crop is from 25 to 40 per cent below normal. Wheat is also below the average and of poor quality. Storms have damaged fruit and crops considerably, and the farmer is receiving low prices for his product.

Lorain County Banks Make Annual Report On Deposits

From the annual bank statements filed at the auditor's office at the court house, it would appear that Elyria has suffered more from the financial depression than almost any other municipality in the county. A shrinkage of deposits aggregating nearly two million dollars is shown here, the only other places where a loss occurred being LaGrange and Wellington. The figures give the names of the banks, the deposits for two years, and the amount of increase or loss.

Liberated Captives

picture of Russian life where men and women were herded together in small cells and condemned prisoners were stripped naked and executed in the middle of the night while a motor truck was driven up and down the prison courtyard to drown the noise of the firing was painted here today by Captain Weston B. Estes of New York, one of the six released Americans who came out of Russia last week.

Another American, Emmet Kilpatrick said that when he was released from prison, the soviet officials informed him that the Moscow government had declared general amnesty.

Henry J. Lamare, another of the Americans, said that the Russians were not hostile towards the United States but that 90 per cent of them are pro-German because they believe that close relations with Germany is the only salvation of the country.

The six Americans were found to be in good condition but were anxious to forget their hardships and either return home or get into England or continental Europe where luxuries are more plentiful than they are here. Probably the best informed of the Americans on actual conditions in Russia is La Marc. He is a graduate of the Harvard law school of the class of 1891 but lived many years in Russia where he amassed a fortune.

"To be correct, there is not much less food in Russia now than there was last year, but it is unevenly distributed," said LaMarc. "In some places the crops failed. In other places where the crops were better this year than last the peasants, not having any confidence in the bolsheviks refused to give up grain. The Americans should help Russia, but should insist upon full control of the work. It is not necessary to import so much grain as machinery. Farm machinery would go far in restoring agriculture."

Russians Pro-German

"About 90 percent of the Russians are pro-German because they believe that Germany is their only salvation and also because Germany is the common enemy of Poland along with Russia.

"While the Russians lack the same enthusiasm for America they display for Germany, nevertheless, the United States has no enemies in Russia. The Russians are looking towards the United States for business because the Americans do not mix politics with business.

"The Russians are suspicious of England whom they accuse of supporting the Baku and Baltic states in their separatism move.

"But America cannot do business so long as the bolsheviks are in power unless they secure the very strongest guarantees. If America deals with the soviet she will become unpopular for I believe that 95 per cent of the Russians are hostile to the bolshevik government. Bolshevism will last in Russia so long as the allies permit it by fighting among themselves and dealing with Russia behind each others backs."

John Flick, of Brooklyn, a moving picture operator who had planned to stage a gigantic film production in America portraying Russian conditions as caught by the camera declared that the only place to learn about Russia is in jail.

"All the brains of Russia including many former communists have been imprisoned," said Flick. "That is the only place where there is freedom of speech. Had I walked about the streets of Petrograd and Moscow as United States senator France did for several weeks I would have been compelled to admit that conditions were not so bad. In jail one learns to appreciate what the bolsheviks have brought Russia to. All political parties are represented among the prisoners."

Captain William B. Estes of New York City had only harsh words for the bolsheviks.

"American investigators came out of Russia and said that the prison conditions were not so bad," declared Estes scornfully. "Don't you call eight women and 27 men herded in one cell, 15 by 23 feet bad?"

"The favorite time for the red inquiry boards to meet is between 1 and 3 o'clock in the morning when resistance is very low."

Captain Emmit Kilpatrick, another of the Americans broke into the conversation saying:

"When I was released the soviet jailer told me in gracious tones that the Moscow government had declared general amnesty."

Estes and Kilpatrick gave the following joint version of executions:

"They used to shoot prisoners in the middle of the night or about 2 o'clock in the morning because their physical resistance was very low then. It was customary to run a motor truck up and down the prison courtyard during the shooting to drown the noise of the rifles. They would undress the prisoners so as to save the clothing from bullet holes and blood so it could be used again.

FARM BUREAU PICNIC OCCURS ON THURSDAY

Plans are complete for the Lorain County Farm Bureau picnic at Avon Beach Park on Thursday. All farmers' organizations co-operating with the farmer, school superintendents, teachers, county commissioners, township trustees and ministers have also been invited to go and take their families with them. A full line of sports has been prepared and the holder of the lucky number will be given $20 in gold. Speeches are to be made by a representative of the State Farm Bureau, and by J. F. Burke. It is expected that this will be the largest picnic of the season.

DeValera Cheered

Irish would die for the political principles they held dear.

Five women were sworn in as members of the parliament, including Countess Markievicz who was released from prison not long ago.

Sean Kelly, the speaker, declared re-election so the position was given to Dr. MacNeill. Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City and New York occupied a seat on the speakers' platform. There were a large number of young women in the spectator's gallery. The walls of the room were decorated with the coats of arms of the Dublin lord mayors since 1821.

When it came time to sign the roll after the oath had been administered, Mike Collins was the first to put down his signature and Arthur Griffith, who sat beside him signed next amidst an outburst of cheering.

U. S. DEAF EARS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Eamonn Devalera's thinly veiled suggestions that the points at issue between England and Ireland be left to "external arbitration"—which means the United States—have fallen on deaf ears in Washington. Neither in official circles nor in congressional quarters is there to be found today the slightest inclination to have the United States mix up in the present negotiations in any way.

There would be great reluctance to undertake mediation even should both sides request it, according to the views privately expressed by several high officials. Such a request is not anticipated however, as for Great Britain to agree to such a proposition would be recognition of Ireland's sovereignty, a recognition which Lloyd George never has extended.

Obstacles Here.

Also officials said in pointing out the obstacles to American mediation, Great Britain would have good cause to doubt the "neutrality" of American mediation in view of the sale of Irish republican bonds in this country and the innumerable resolutions expressing sympathy for the Irish republic which have been introduced in congress.

The idea of American mediation proposed by Devalera with specific regard to determining the Irish share of the British debt did not even find favor today with those who have been most pronounced in their sympathies for Ireland.

Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin, who now has a resolution before the committee on foreign relations extending American recognition to the Irish republic, declined to talk about Ireland at all. Other senators and congressmen identified with the late "committee of 100" were also reticent.

Silent During Parley

Investigating the reason for this unusual reticence on the part of those who formerly were so quick to speak their sympathies for Ireland disclosed that a general agreement was reached among the Irish supporters in congress here at the time of Frank P. Walsh's departur for the scene of the negotiations, to maintain silence while the parleys are in progress. They canvassed the situation and decided it is understood, that the Irish question at this critical stage should be handled entirely from London and Dublin and that nothing would be said or done on this side which could be calculated to embarrass or impede the negotiations in any way.

The whole attitude of the administration and those who are pronounced in their sympathies with the Irish cause, is to "lay low" and figuratively hold their breaths for fear something ill cloud up the situation abroad.

"Everything seems to be going forward favorably and we don't want to embarrass anyone by talking," is the answer returned to questioners.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—British officials in Downing street were amazed this morning when informed by the International News Service of the contents of Eamonn DeValera's speech before dail eireann in Dublin, reiterating his demand for an Irish republic and announcing that the Sinn Fein could not negotiate further with the British cabinet.

Premier Lloyd George had already departed for the house of commons to make a statement on Upper Silesia when the International News Service correspondent called at his official residence.

It was learned that, however provocative De Valera's words might be considered, no member of the British cabinet would reply to them in commons or elsewhere pending a formal communication from dail eireann.

BREAK FORESEEN

Indications that the Sinn Fein might break off peace negotiations with the British cabinet were contained in Eamonn DeValera's speech before the Sinn Fein parliament in Dublin today.

The most significant assertions in De Valera's speech were:

"The Irish republic has been sanctioned by the will of the people and we solemnly declare we will give our lives to make the expression of the people effective. We stand for our principles and will die for them if necessary. The Irish people recognize only the Sinn Fein cabinet and dail eireann as their government. It is impossible to negotiate with the present British government because it is like negotiating with a man holding a pistol to your head."

PARIS, Aug. 16.—The new Spanish ministry of Premier Maura has voted complete confidence in the operations against the rebels in Morocco, said an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Madrid today. It was announced that the Spanish campaign against the Moroccan tribesmen will be continued unceasingly until success is achieved.

Good Night Stories

CHIPPY CHIPMUNK LEARNS A LESSON.

WHEN Mama and Daddy Weasel returned from their journey and related their terrible experience, Chippy Chipmunk stuck his nose and tail in the air and sniffed.

At first Daddy Weasel was inclined to feel offended, and wanted to thrash Chippy Chipmunk for his impudence, but Mama Weasel, who was of a more calm disposition, soon quieted Daddy Weasel, and thus saved a rumpus.

"Just the same, it was a terrible experience," she said, smoothing out the wrinkles from her neat little brown gown. "And when I saw that great, big, black monster come snorting and shooting toward us, well, I ran just my usual much. I never ran faster in all my life. I fairly flew, and daddy stayed right at my side."

"But what did it look like?" asked Croaker Green Frog. "I've never been away from the side of this pond, so I can't say much about what passes on the big road at the top of the hill."

"Well, I'm not easily frightened," said Daddy Weasel. "I've traveled over the road from the farmhouse to this pond a good many years, and I never saw such a terrible-looking monster in all my life before."

"Pooh!" chirped up Chippy Chipmunk. "I've lived in this meadow a good many weeks, and I've never seen anything that frightened me. Daddy and Mama Weasel must have been seeing things."

"Call it what you may," laughed Mama Weasel, "but I'd give much to know what it really was. It was at least a hundred times longer and taller than that stump yonder. Instead of having legs like we have, it had four round things that sent the dust flying into the air every time they touched the road. It puffed and snorted as it came thundering up the hill. In front were two great, big eyes that shot out streams of fire. Oh, they must have been fifty times larger than Green Frog's eyes!"

"But, What Did It Look Like?"

"Pooh!" exclaimed Chippy Chipmunk. "You must have been dreaming. If there is anything like that living in this part of the country it's a new one on me."

With a disgusted air Chippy Chipmunk ran up the hill and started across the road, when, much to his surprise, the very monster Mama Weasel had described, rushed up the hill, and Chippy Chipmunk barely had time to turn around and duck back under the bushes when the horrid thing went running, thundering past him.

Chippy Chipmunk hurried back to his friends and apologized to Mama and Daddy Weasel for his impudence.

"I've seen him, myself, and seeing's believing!" he panted. "And I'm going to move away from here at once."

He began packing his things up when Robin Redbreast flew down among the meadow folk and laughed merrily.

"Don't be frightened, folks!" he cried. "It isn't a monster at all. It's only an automobile. I've seen millions of them, and they'll never run over any of you who go along minding your own business. Besides, it couldn't come down into the meadow. It's a man-made machine, and 'most always sticks to the roads. All you need do is to be careful when crossing the big road," and with a merry chirp he flew away.

Before long the meadow folks grew accustomed to the thundering machines, and were careful not to get in their way. And the big-eyed monsters never left the road, and the meadow folks lived in the meadows contentedly.

Cheerfulness is a duty we owe to others.

Virtue commands respect even in a beggar's garb.

When weariness weighs down and masters the spirit, good work is an impossibility.

How many could be made happy with the blessings which are recklessly thrown away!

There is no policy like politeness, since a good manner often succeeds where the best tongue has failed.

A man should make sacrifices to keep clear of doing wrong; sacrifices will not undo it when it is done.

GEORGE COLLINS DIES SUDDENLY

George Collin, 53, one of the best known brick masons and contractors in the city, died suddenly in Cleveland yesterday afternoon at 1:30. Mr. Collin left his home at 311 Eleventh street, for Cleveland yesterday morning where he was employed on the new Western Reserve building, apparently in good health.

He complained after dinner that he did not feel well, and soon became very ill. An ambulance was called to take him to a hospital and he died before reaching there, death being due to heart trouble.

The deceased had been a resident of this city for twenty-seven years coming here from Oberlin. He has worked on most of the large buildings of the city, and was a good citizen.

He is survived by his wife, his son Eugene, Elyria, and a daughter, Mrs. Bessie Kish, of Oklahoma City. He was a member of the colored Masons, and of the local bricklayers' union.

His body was brought to the Wilkins-Hurst funeral parlors and the funeral will be held from there on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

ONE DYING, ANOTHER BADLY HURT IN AUTO MISHAP, VERMILION

LORAIN—Peter Collis, 37, a wealthy Rochester, N. Y. candy manufacturer was probably fatally injured and Harry Dean, 22, Rochester, Collis chauffeur received bruises about the face and body when the automobile in which they were riding skidded and overturned on the West Shore road near Vermilion, pinning both men underneath.

Both men are being given medical attention at St. Joseph's hospital.

According to Dean, he had driven Collis from Rochester to Cleveland, last week, to attend the Odd Fellows convention. Early Sunday morning they left Cleveland for Detroit, with Collis at the wheel of the automobile.

Collis was rendered unconscious Dean, however, was able to crawl from under the overturned auto and tried in vain to lift the machine from the unconscious form of his employer.

Realizing the futility of his attempts, the chauffer ran to a nearby farm house and solicited the aid of several farm hands. The rescuers finally managed to extricate Collis.

Dr. W. E. Wheatley examined Collis at the hospital and found several broken ribs and probable that he sustained a crushed chest, internal injuries.

The tax on cereal beverages was reduced from a 12 cents a gallon to six cents a gallon.

The tax on capital assets was fixed at 15 per cent on income from these assets above $40,000 annually.

DRUNK WHO CREATED DISTURBANCE FINED $5

Two drunks in police court this morning furnished much amusement for everyone. John Brazo was arrested while coming out of the loop saloon last evening and very much under the influence. When socked up he set up a holler that could be heard on Broad street and demanded to see an attorney and his starving babies. He finally tired of banging the walls of his cell, much to the relief of residents within a radius of two blocks.

He plead guilty to an intoxication charge this morning and was fined five dollars and costs.

Andy Hagadus, who got his jag from eating too many sour apples also plead guilty and was fined the usual five dollars and costs. He promised to inspect all apples carefully in the future before eating them.

The Way Dicky Accepted Madge's Letter.

WHEN Dicky held out his hand for the letter I had written Grace Draper I felt as if my body was one tensely coiled spring ready to snap at the slightest touch. If he had criticised its wording or its spirit in any particular I do not know in what nervous excess of temper I might have indulged. For my action in bringing the girl as a model back into Dicky's life in order to save his professional reputation had strained my nerves almost to the breaking point.

How much my husband surmised of this I do not know. I watched his face closely as he read, and while he bit his lip at one moment—whether in amusement or chagrin, I do not know—he gave no hint of disapproval, and handed the letter back when he had finished it, with a single slangy comment:

"Very good, Eddie!" he said flippantly, and I saw that for Dicky life had slipped back into its careless, agreeable, broad highway from which Marsden's letter had jolted him. I had shown him a way out of his dilemma, and in characteristic fashion he had shifted responsibility to my shoulders—sub-consciously, no doubt, but nevertheless completely.

"That's settled, then," he said with a sigh of satisfaction, idly watching me as I methodically sealed the letter and placed it inside the other envelope addressed to Linda Shelliford's cousin. When I had sealed that also, I handed it back to Dicky with a queer little feeling that I would like to wash my hands of it, and the possible consequences its sending would entail. He consulted his watch briskly.

"No possible mail out of here until 6 o'clock," he said. "So come along and let's plan my corncrib studio."

Madge's Self-Analysis.

He was as blithely irresponsible as if he were not still in the shadow of failure. But then, I reflected, he did not know, as I did, how precarious were his chances of satisfying Pennington with illustrations having Grace Draper as the model for the heroine.

For he had not seen the girl since her release from prison, and though he had once made a careless reference to the effect prison life must have had upon her beauty, I know that he had no real idea of the ravages suffering had made. That Dicky was counted unusual in his technique, especially in what Alfred Durkee called "trick juggling," I had heard many times, and was sure that if any one could turn defeat into victory he could. But I feared his almost certain disappointment when he should see Grace Draper.

Or—did I fear it? I asked the question of myself brutally, trying to probe the depths of my own littleness. Was I not secretly, subconsciously rejoicing in the fact that when my husband should again see the girl who had wrought such havoc in our lives, he would be forced to admit that she no longer owned the wonderful alluring beauty which almost had swayed him from his allegiance to me? How far he had been drawn away from me I never had known, never should know—as always when I think of Grace Draper there sound in my ears the old, false, mocking cry she had uttered when pretending delirium while desperately ill:

"What's Up?"

"You never will know, will you, Madgie, dear, just how much is false and how much true of what I have been saying?"

But I know that, no matter what my secret or open, conscious or subconscious attitude toward the change in the girl might be, I must hold my tongue about it to Dicky. If I should try to warn him he might think that I had repented of my decision to send the invitation to her. But, on the other hand, would he not blame me if I permitted him to meet her unprepared for the change in her?

Dicky's voice jolted me out of my introspection.

"If you'll just kindly write me down your astral address, old dear," he gibed, "I'll try to reach you by special delivery or long-distance telephone. But I haven't the slightest idea to which quarter of the mental globe you have retired."

I laughed while I racked my brain for a misleading answer.

"I was just wondering if this structure were not too near the house for your undisturbed comfort," I stammered.

He looked at me keenly, and a quizzical smile curved the corners of his mouth.

"Pretty nifty foot work, old dear," he said, "but we'll let it go at that. Far be it from me to pry into your soul, no knowing what I might find. What did you say? Oh! The location of the studio. No, it isn't too near, as I shall have the door cut through this side next the orchard, and close up the side next the house. Then I'll— What's up?"

For his eyes had followed mine to the figure of my father walking rapidly up the path toward us.

'WARE WASTE AND WEAR WELL.

Human Bodies Are Poisoned by Their Own Waste. Most Illnesses Are Preventable.

The human body has to be heated and fine foods burned inside the body produce much waste. All this waste should be removed from the body regularly, thoroughly, daily, by the eliminative organs,—which are the bowels, kidneys, skin, and to some extent the lungs. These should act in harmony—if the bowels are inactive extra effort is required of the others, which easily become deranged. Many medicines will force bowel action temporarily but the after-effects are harmful. Many remedies are advertised, some of which have proven year after year to be reliable, efficient, and without harmful action or effect. Take Beecham's Pills for example. For over 70 years Beecham's has been a household word all over the world. 70 years of use by all sorts of folks, men, women and even children, have proven first, that Beecham's Pills do what is claimed for them; second, that they are harmless, do not produce bad effects. Some medicine forces Nature to unnatural action. Other medicines, like those contained in Beecham's Pills assist Nature, act mildly, persuade and hence produce no harmful effects. It is common to find families in which Beecham's have been used by several generations, their use handed down from father to son and from mother to daughter.

That's the best possible recommendation for any remedy. Every druggist sells Beecham's, is glad to do so because he knows that their reputation has been won by merit.

The Mystery of the Cook's Pet Parrot

A FUNNY paper recently.
SLIPPED ME a good laugh.
WITH A wheeze about.
A FAMOUS ventriloquist.
AND WHY he had quit.
THE VAUDEVILLE stage.
IT SAID he discovered.
HE COULD make more jack.
SELLING WOODEN parrots.
SO WHEN I got home.
I PASSED the joke.
TO OUR cook, who owns.
BOTH A speechless parrot.
AND A sense of humor.
BUT SHE muffed it.
BECAUSE SHE didn't know.
WHAT A ventriloquist was.
SO I had to explain it.
AND ON the way out.
I BLEW just a whiff.
OF CIGARETTE smoke.
AT HER amusing old.
FOOL OF a parrot.
WHICH NEVER talks.
AND I said, "Poll.
HOW D'YOU like it?"
AND TO this day.
IT'S GOT me guessing.
WHETHER IT was cook.
OR THE blamed bird.
WHICH SQUAWKED back.
"THEY SATISFY."

CHESTERFIELDS speak for themselves. They let you know you're smoking. They "satisfy" and yet, they're mild. An impossible combination, you say? Sure—everywhere but in Chesterfields. The blend does it and the blend can't be copied!

"Come In to See Us," Said the Five Big Men

Five important looking letters were handed to Henry by the landlady when he came home to lunch.

Each letter was from an important man. And each letter said: "Come in to see us."

You see, Henry had been out of employment for the last two weeks, thru no fault of his own. Being a progressive, alert,— keen sort of chap, he advertised his services under Situations Wanted in The Chronicle-Telegram.

The next morning five important men said: "A man who is ambitious enough to advertise ought to be worth talking to. Maybe I can make room for the right sort of helper."

Hence Henry's five letters —and Henry's new job.

PRODUCTION OF PINAFORE PLEASES

The largest audience of the course attended the performance of Gilbert & Sullivan's famous comic opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore" at the Chautauqua last evening, and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. It was the first time in over thirty-five years that Pinafore has been presented here, and the familiar songs of Buttercup, Ralph Rackstraw, Dick Deadeye, the Admiral, the Captain and his daughter, brought back to the older ones many pleasant memories.

Magician at Chautauqua Tonight

The company was a good one and was composed of fourteen members and an orchestra. The individual voices were well suited to their parts, and the antics of Dick Deadeye, kept every one in good humor throughout. The frequent applause throughout the entertainment showed that the younger generation enjoyed the production full as well as their elders had in years gone by.

This afternoon Dr. Stephen A. Lloyd spoke on "Treasure and Treasure Houses." "America's treasure," he declared, "is not to be found in rich fields and farms, multiplying industries, transporting systems, in combinations of world business, nor in contemplated merchant-marines, but in her children. Wherever the American home is there is her treasure house."

"The building of the American spirit into the world life through the medium of the boys and girls of today, is the really big business of the country. In this work the home is the largest factor and the constant contributor. Home is what you make it—the Gate of Heaven or a veritable hell upon earth. It may be just a home upon which artisans and artists have wrought their theories, or it may be a home, the dearest spot on earth, because it is the highest expression in the sphere of love. It may be a house of gladness. He advised husbands to butter their tongues and wives to sweeten their tempers and said that a kiss is a boon both common and proper, and if accompanied by a genuine hug, is a cure for most of the ills of life. Dr. Lloyd gives the following axioms on firmness in dealing with children: 1. Never lose your head or temper. 2. Have a policy and a goal. Keep this in mind constantly. 3. Make your instruction perfectly clear; the child does not always understand. 4. Expect obedience and co-operation. 5. Be explicit; never threaten vaguely. 6. Having given your word, stick to it. 7. Be kind but not weak in your decisions and judgments. 8. Have as much regard for the rights of the child as for your own. 9. Remember he or she is a child. 10. Be yourself what you expect the child to be.

This evening Laurant and Company will present a spectacular program of magic and music. Press reports of this entertainment gives assurance that it is another first class performance, and the children will especially enjoy it.

The Chautauqua closes tomorrow evening with a grand concert which will be the cap sheaf of the course.

Many vacant lots are unsightly and eyesores of the community and out of civic pride each citizen should endeavor to clean up his property, says the mayor.

There are man men who need work now and unless the owner does or hires the work done the city will put a squad of men on such work.

SUFFERED SEVEN LONG YEARS

Finally Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ravenswood, W. Va.—"For seven long years I suffered from a female trouble and inflammation so that I was notable to do my housework. I consulted several doctors but none seemed to give me relief. I read in a paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I decided to try it, and before the first bottle was gone I found great relief so I continued using it until I had taken eight bottles. Now I am very well and can do my own housework. I can gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine to suffering women."—Mrs. BERTHA LIERING, R. F. D., Ravenswood, W. Va.

The ordinary day of most housewives is a ceaseless treadmill of washing, cooking, cleaning, mending, sweeping, dusting and caring for little ones. How much harder the tasks when some derangement of the system causes headaches, backache, bearing-down pains and nervousness. Every such woman should profit by Mrs. Liering's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. W. O. Dunning Sues For Divorce

Two divorce suits were filed in common pleas court today.

The plaintiff charges that his wife was very frank with him, telling that she did not love him, in fact despised him. The couple were married in Cleveland in 1918 and have one minor child over whom the plaintiff asks custody.

Blanche Dunning wants fifteen years of married life ended by a divorce decree from her husband, W. O. Dunning. It is alleged that the plaintiff's husband struck, threatened, cursed and in many other ways annoyed her.

A divorce and the custody of two minor children is asked.

To Bring Health and Beauty to Your Hair

WE are presenting this offer to you for this week only—the opportunity to learn for yourself—what Lura Liquid Henna Shampoo will do for your hair and scalp.

Henna as a tonic was known by the Ancient Egyptians, and was used extensively for its remarkable benefits to the skin and scalp. We bring the tonic values of Henna to you today in Lura Liquid Henna Shampoo.

This positive proven-by-the-test-of-Ages tonic eradicates the cause of hair and scalp troubles. Lura liquid Henna Shampoo will get at the seat of the trouble, destroy the cause, cleanse the scalp and give new life to the hair.

LURA can be used solely as a shampoo, or with its coloring advantages, but in either case, you will have the benefits of Henna as a tonic. After the scalp is thoroughly cleansed, the length of time you allow the shampoo to remain upon hair, determines the extent of the color effect you receive.

The lovely rich tones of your hair can be intensified to just the tint you desire without the smallest danger of getting an unnatural shade. It does not stain the hands or scalp. The full directions are on every bottle.

Don't let this week slip by without taking advantage of our offer. Think what it means to every man, woman and child, the gloss and brightness of Youth in your hair, hair health and hair beauty. Lura Liquid Henna Shampoo comes in one size only. Price $1.00.

HOW TO USE IT

As a General Shampoo
Wet hair thoroughly, then pour one tablespoonful of Shampoo on head and massage vigorously, loosening all dirt and dandruff. Rinse well, then apply another tablespoonful of Shampoo, rub well and rinse thoroughly, first in hot then in cool water. Only two applications are necessary and to use more than a tablespoonful into an application is wasting shampoo.

To Bring Out the Glint Not Changing the Color
Wet the hair thoroughly. Pour one tablespoonful of Shampoo on hair, massage vigorously, loosening all dirt and dandruff. Rinse well. Squeeze water from hair, so it will not drip. Then apply another tablespoonful of Shampoo and distribute evenly. Do not rub. Do not apply more water, but allow Shampoo to remain on hair for three to fifteen minutes then apply water, massage and rinse thoroughly. Will not color the hair but gives that "golden glint" so much desired.

To Darken Gray Hair and Bring True Henna Tone
Wet the hair thoroughly. Put about one tablespoonful of Shampoo directly on the hair. Rub vigorously into a lather, then rinse the soap out of the hair and rub hair with dry towel so water does not drip from hair, then apply another tablespoonful of Shampoo directly on the hair and distribute evenly. DO NOT RUB. DO NOT APPLY MORE WATER but allow Shampoo to remain on hair fifteen to thirty minutes, then apply more water, rub into a lather and rinse well.

Present this coupon today to the dealers listed. Know for yourself what Lura Liquid Henna Shampoo will do for your hair. Only 1 bottle to a family.

STATE BRIEFS

COLUMBUS—Ohio autoists have been given 30 days grace in which to comply with the Pence headlight law which becomes effective on August 17. In order to afford ample opportunity for all motorists to equip their machines with anti-glare headlights, the Pence act will not be enforced, it is said until September 16. This announcement has been issued by State Highway Director Herrick to all law enforcement officers.

WOODSFIELD—Sheriff Charles D. Barker, Monroe county, and his family, escaped injury when their auto went over an embankment at a bridge.

SHADYSIDE—Mayor I. J. Davis won the Democratic nomination for a second term against a single opponent without campaigning. He is in a hospital suffering from injuries sustained in a mine two months ago.

BELLAIRE—George Parry has asked the police to help find his wife. The couple came here last spring from England. The women disappeared last Monday.

MARTINS FERRY—A paternity case, involving a 15-year-old Martins Ferry girl and a Pittsburgh man, said to be married, was settled in Bellaire. It is asserted the man paid $1,000.

DEFIANCE—Jim Stoy, who has served out only $25 worth—at 50 cents per day—of a $100 fine for bootlegging, has been transferred by county officials from the jail to the farm at the county infirmary. It is believed Stoy can be made to produce from the soil a part of the 75 cents daily which is required to feed him.

COLUMBUS—Because he drove on the High street asphalt pavement with an overloaded wagon, Rose Wrightsell, 536 East Cherry street, was fined $27.75 in municipal court.

CASTALIA—Miss Effie Bain, a Scotch lass, aged 16, wants to sing before President Harding. She recently arrived at New York city, enroute to the home of her sister, Mrs. W. Wadsworth, here.

COLUMBUS—As a result, it is claimed, of co-operation with the extension workers of Ohio State University, flocks of chickens on 207 Ohio farms produced 500,000 eggs since May and 2,000,000 between last November and June, aggregate value of the eggs being $98,386.

LOYDSVILLE—An auto, stolen from John Taylor while he was at work on a road, has been recovered in Canton. The engine had been placed in fine condition, two new tires and a new rear curtain added. Two men arrested when the car was found are said to have confessed to stealing cars in Eastern Ohio, throwing the bodies in the Ohio river and selling the chassis.

COLUMBUS—Police today are looking for two umbrellas stolen from Miss Eva Burlin, 662 Fsons avenue. One rainy day tweek, her rain stick disappeafrom the rest room of a downstore. The other umbrella stolen two weeks ago.

Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it.

They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTY AFTERTASTE.

Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels.

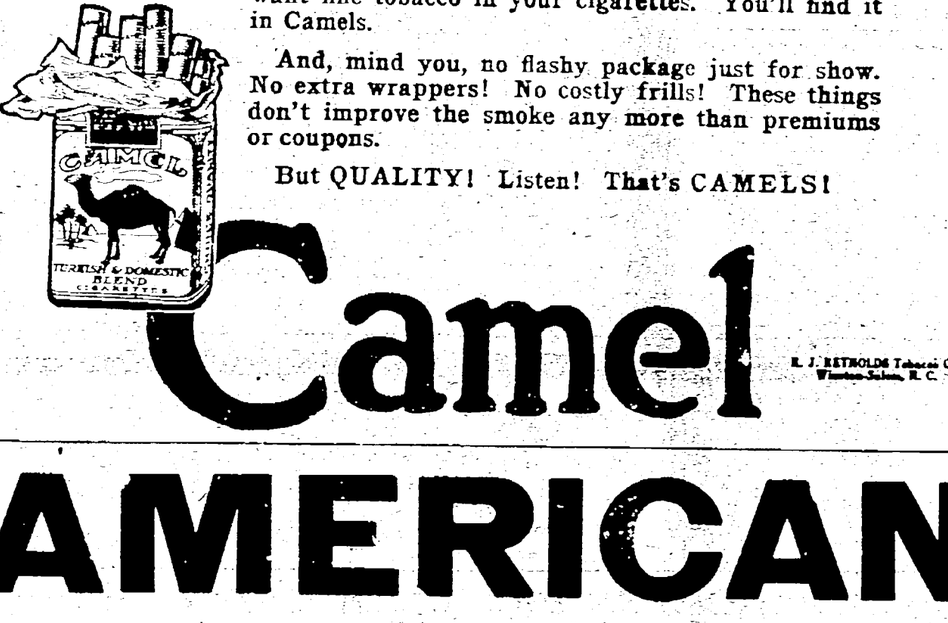

And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills! These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons.

But QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

AMHERST FORMS FAST GRIDIRON TEAM FOR FALL

AMHERST—Preparations are now under way for the organization of the Amherst City football team to represent the quarrytown on the gridiron this fall. Harvey Ludwig has been elected captain of this year's squad and a meeting will be called soon to sign players. Ludwig says that any players in this vicinity may try out for the team.

This year's team will be one of the best ever turned out here. Nearly all of last year's men will be back and several new men are in sight to bolster up weak positions.

The Amherst gridders earned an enviable record last year, defeating the Cleveland Melvin Rose team, the Elyria Tigers, Grafton and several other strong teams beside holding Ashtabula to a tie on their own field.

Ludwig says that no games will be played in Amherst this year and is seeking games with any strong team in this part of the state. He has already received fine offers for games in Ashtabula, Alliance and Fremont, with many more in prospect. He also wishes to have all men interested in joining the Amherst team to write or interview him at once.

OBERLIN

ALL COLLEGES RAISE TUITION FOR NEXT YEAR

OBERLIN: With the prospect of lower prices for the coming year, the college students all over the country are experiencing a boost in tuition charges made necessary by the increasing cost of education in American colleges. According to latest reports, there are very few colleges which will not raise their tuition rate for the coming year.

In his report to the Harvard trustees, President Lowell of that institution, in commenting upon tuition raises in the colleges explains the necessity of doing so, as a result of the increase in professors' salaries, a needed step in furthering education, and other increases made necessary by the increase in costs of educating the student of the present generation.

Part of his report is quoted as follows:

"It is always disagreeable to increase the tution fee and the problem is by no means without its difficulties. Perhaps the most rational way of reaching a wise agreement is to follow the plan adopted in the case of the salaries of the professors." This was voted 50 per cent. He goes on to say "—to assume that the scale immediately preceding the war bore the proper relation to the prevailing level of prices, and then make a guess at the probable permanent increase of these, raising the tuition fees in that proportion."

Among the colleges which have raised their fees are: Oberlin, from $150 to $200, Bowdoin, $125 to $150, Tufts to $175, Amherst $140 to $200, Williams $150 to $200, Boston University $175 to $200, Columbia $192 to $256, Yale $200 to $300, Princeton $250 to $300, and M. I. T. will charge $300 for all students entered in September 1920 or later.

Dartmouth Brown, Smith, Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania have increased to $250. Bryn Mawr, Vassar and Wellesley, all girls' schools, have charged fees from $150 to $200 with additional maintenance or emergency fees. Next year these schools will charge a flat rate of $300.

These increases, according to Mr. W. F. Bohn, assistant to President King, are the direct result of the increased cost of educating a student. Each student costs the college from $256 to $1,500 to educate. This whole cost is not met by the tution fee, Mr. Bohn said.

COLLEGE BOY RESCUES TWO FROM DROWNING

OBERLIN: Word has reached Oberlin of the rescue of a woman and her four year old daughter by Norman D. Bailey, 19, a member of the college class of 1923, who rescued the two swimmers at Pine Crest near East Providence, R. I., a short time ago.

Bailey wears a silver medal received from the Massachusetts Humane Society for saving the life of an intoxicated man who had gone down a second time. This rescue was performed at Pine Crest also.

During the summer months Bailey is preaching in the Union church at South Dartmouth. Four years ago he organized a Sunday school near Pine Crest and last year a fine chapel was erected to house the school.

Bailey supplied the pulpit of the church at New Bedford, Mass., where his father was pastor, last Sunday.

In addition to his ministerial work Bailey has worked on various newspapers and is one of the news editors on the college Review for next year.

MRS. F. L. BROWN TO BE BURIED ON THURSDAY

OBERLIN: The news has just been received in Oberlin by Mrs. May Wood that her sister, Mrs. Flora L. Brown, died at Wheeling, W. Va., and that the remains will be brought to Oberlin for burial on Thursday. Mrs. Brown was formerly in business in Oberlin and Elyria. The services will be held at the home of Mrs. Wood and will be conducted by Rev. J. W. Weddell.

Mrs. Brown leaves one daughter, Mrs. May Eastwood, of Wheeling, and Mr. Frank E. Brown, Los Angeles, California; also two brothers and a sister in Oberlin—Charles McChesney, Will Darling and Mrs. May Wood.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY AND FAMILY REUNION

OBERLIN: On Sunday, August 14th, Mr. and Mrs. John Papworth of South Main street, were host and hostess for a large circle of relatives at which time they celebrated the thirty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, combining this event with the second annual reunion of the Haylor, Hales and Papworth families. About sixty-five were present. Mr. and Mrs. John Papworth's immediate family presented them with a new paper dollar for each year they had been married and an extra one for good luck. There were also a number of other presents.

The out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hales and sons Orlo and Herbert, of Columbus Station; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Papworth, of Lorain; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Miller, daughter Emma H. and son Kenneth, of Sandusky; Harry Haylor, of Canton; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hales and sons, Elden and Lawrence, of West View; Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Papworth, of Cleveland; Mr.

OBERLIN ODD FELLOWS TEAM LOSES PLAYERS

OBERLIN: The Odd Fellows baseball team will go to the lake Wednesday to take part in the baseball tournament staged by the various lodges of this district. They will be badly wrecked, however, before starting in the tournament as the Firemen's convention will take four of their best players—Wilson, Powers, Jones and Williams—while Papworth is out of the game for the time being with a "Charley-horse" in his right leg, and Dan Bryant will be unable to go on account of the critical illness of his father.

The Misses Myra and Marjorie smer, of N. Professor street, together with Miss Muriel Baldry, of South Amherst, left Sunday for Poplar Inn, Linwood Park, where they will spend the week.

On Sunday afternoon, August the 14th, at the Oberlin Hospital a baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Rosecrans of East College street. Mother and child are getting along very nicely.

Miss Ruth Parsons of West Lorain street left this (Tuesday) morning for Mansfield, where she will spend the week as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Burnison.

WORDS of WISE MEN

What we are tomorrow is what we make of ourselves today.

Idleness travels leisurely and poverty soon overtakes it.

Contentment gives a crown where fortune has denied it.

True courage, as well as true wisdom, is not distrustful of itself.

• • •

Happiness is not a matter of events; it depends upon the tides of the mind.

Nothing that a man does can please him if he knows he is not doing his duty.

Sympathy is one of the great secrets of life. It overcomes evil and strengthens good.

Imagination seems to set on all the other faculties to make them lovelier and more pleasing.

• • •

Opportunities are like flashlights. They suddenly reveal us to others and also to ourselves.

Whatever vicissitudes may befall a man, he can always keep the wisdom life has taught him.

The heart of a wise man is like a storehouse of gems where all worthless trinkets are rejected.

The graces of success cannot be borrowed. You will not really develop with any capital but your own.

• • •

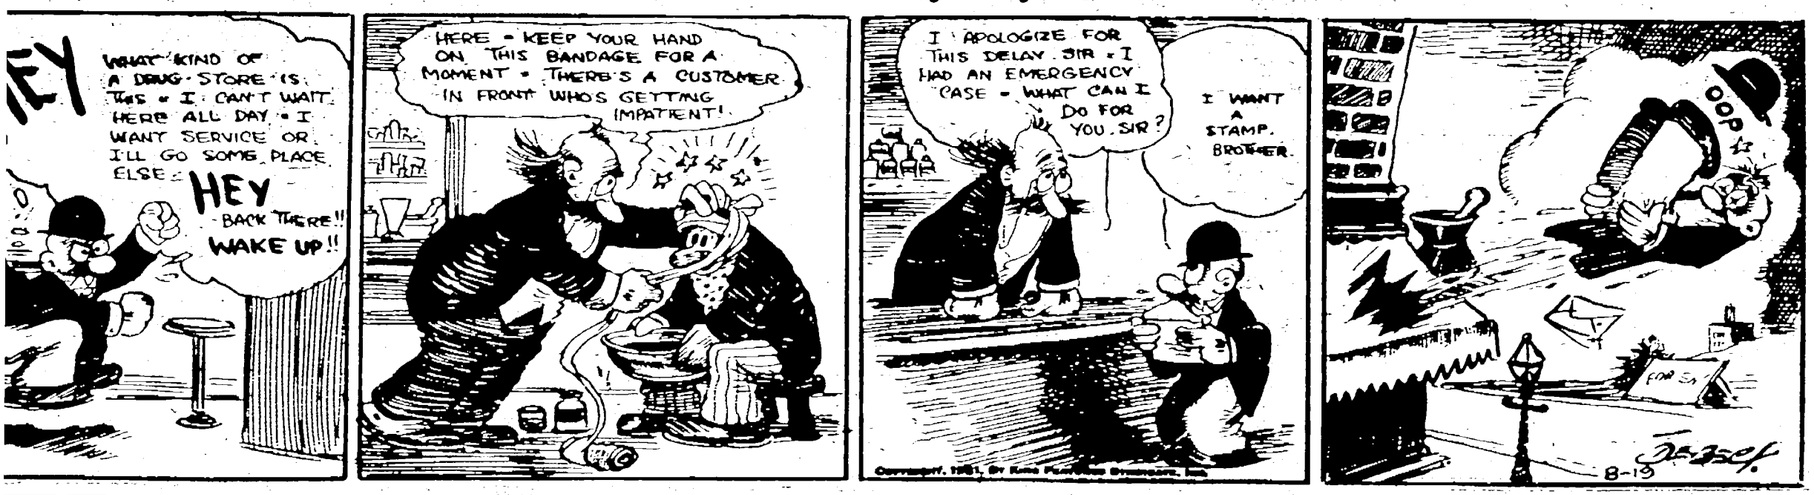

Among the most thoroughly well-fooled people in the world are those who think that in the multiplication of things and possessions happiness or contentment lies.

BORAH ON DISARMAMENT

Senator Borah declares that in his judgment, unless the other nations shall cut down their armament program, that Germany will so forge ahead that she will dominate the world economically in spite of her crushing defeat. His statement is well worth repeating. He says:

"Despite her military defeat, Germany, by reason of the short sighted and blundering policies of the allied and associated powers, may yet secure economic dominance of Europe," Senator Borah says. "Defeat has resulted in Germany being deprived of her army and her navy. The burden of armament has been forced from the backs of the German people. They may now devote their energies and their talents to agriculture, to industry, to the arts, to the things which constitute the real wealth and strength of a people. Their genius will find expression not in arms or on the military field but in improved machinery and co-operative industry. Every ounce of effort which they put forth will be along lines which produce something, which add wealth to the community, which make for contentment and prosperity to the people, which insure greater physical prowess and a higher brain power.

"On the other hand, the allied and associated powers are carrying a vast burden because of their great armies and navies. These burdens are being increased upon a stupendous scale. Hundreds of thousands of their people are to be engaged in lines which produce nothing, add no wealth to the community, make not for health, growth and happiness, but for display, parade and possibly for destruction and death. The German people are compelled to preserve their energies for things which count. The allied and associated powers are burying their people under intolerable taxes, discouraging industry, sterilizing human energy and breeding discontent through their everlasting plans for increased armaments.

"It is true that Germany has a vast debt upon her for reparation. But this debt is no larger—and perhaps not so large—than our own expenditures as they will be created from year to year for armaments.

"France has an army of 800,000 men. The exact cost for maintaining this great army I do not know, but one can imagine how stupendous it is. The British army and navy combined call for an expenditure much larger than our own. Thus while Germany has her billions for reparation, the allied and associated powers are spending their billions for their armies and navies—we alone expending as much for our army and navy as the entire reparation claims against Germany.

"All that is being done and said just now about reducing the expenses of the government in other departments and along other lines will amount to very little so far as lifting the burden of the tax payer is concerned, unless we also cut most savagely the expenditures for armaments, for there is where the vast sum of money goes.

"Disarmament should not be postponed, or subordinated, or made incident to the settling and adjusting of all international questions. It should be made the controlling, dominating question. It is the most vital problem in the world today."

From any angle you may view it, it should be the policy of the nations to disarm and to insist that the other nations disarm.

THE POWER OF THE PAPER

Quite a commentary on the power of newspapers is shown in the fight in New York City. All of the newspapers with the exception of the New York Journal and American are opposed to Mayor Hylan, yet the general opinion is, although an able man is running against the present mayor, that the mayor will be re-elected. The reason, primarily in our judgment, is, that the opposition to the city ministration is forced to take a position of the up state against the city, and of course, the majority of people of any city do not like to be governed by the state legislature instead of their own council. The up state is republican in New York. The actions of the republicans of the legislature take the form of trying to get everything out of New York City which it can. This naturally keeps the city in the position of opposing and forces it into the Democratic column; hence the power of Tammany Hall. The paper can not effect public sentiment permanently against the interest of the same people.

THE R. R. CROSSING

Why is it that some railroad crossings have planked the space between the rails so that the automobilists can drive over it with perfect ease and have a smooth surface while on many other crossings it is filled in with small stones, and it is made into an extremely rough road and tending to slow down, if not to entirely stop the car on its way across the track?

It seems to us it would be in the interests not only of comfort but of safety to have the road over the tracks so level and smooth that the very momentum of the car would carry it across if for any reason the power should happen to give out. We believe the authorities should everywhere call the attention of the various electric lines and railroad companies to this condition and see that it is remedied. It will save human life.

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

"READJUSTMENT" has been the most-used word in business circles for the past year. It has been given a close second by President Harding's now famous "Normalcy."

They have a very intimate connection, for upon the rapidity and sanity of business readjustment depend the country's happy and most desirable return to "normalacy."

Fortunately the return is in sight, and in its accomplishment this newspaper is happy to feel that it has had a share.

The prosperity of this country is dependent upon the prosperity of its business concerns and its people. The interests of Manufacturer, Merchant and Consumer are interdependent. Business must sell its merchandise to succeed; consumers must buy necessities—and are entitled to comforts. The right basis for this business intercourse is that one, naturally, which gives the business man legitimate profits and the buyer the full value of every dollar he spends.

War and the abnormal conditions which it always establishes produced a new order of things. The high peak of prices and purchasing was followed by a reactionary period of depression. How to get to "pre-war" conditions; how to stabilize and revitalize business These were the all-important questions—questions which needed the hearty co-operation of both business and buyer.

To help answer them, this newspaper and 158 other newspapers throughout the country have co-operated with well-known advertising agencies in a 100-day campaign, which has been unusual in its mission and in its results.

One hundred and fifty-nine newspapers have given a full column, averaging 300 lines, a day every day for 100 days to editorials written by the finest advertising experts, who have told newspaper readers in the most convincing way why it pays them to read advertising.

These newspapers have a total circulation of practically 5,000,000 daily. Their average advertising rate is 1-5c per line per thousand, or $10 per line. The space given by them has a value of $3,000 per day, or $300,000 for the 100-day campaign.

These editorial messages to the Buying Public of America appeared in more than 500,000,000 separate papers. To have sent a postcard appeal in space about one trird the size of a newspaper column ,to the same number of homes, would have cost $50,000 daily, or $5,000,000 for the 100 days, and this does not take into consideration the tremendous cost of printing and addressing.

In the 5,000,000 homes which have been reached daily by the newspapers are nearly 25,000,000 people for whom necessities and luxuries must be bought.

THESE editorials have told the buyers in these homes what benefits have come to them through advertising; what present benefits they may derive from reading advertising. They have stressed the price concessions which forward-looked merchants are now making as their part in the readjustment. They have pointed the way clearly, convincingly, to better and more economical living through following advertising closely and constantly.

These editorials have attracted nation-wide attention. Special newspaper representatives have asked for the privilege of using them with their classes, so sincerely and honestly have they preached the benefits and the basis of all worthy and worth-while advertisements.

Merchants and advertising agencies have expressed their appreciation of the value which these editorials have been to both business and buyers.

Such attention and influence on the part of these Advertising Talks must only strengthen the conviction that the printed advertisment is the greatest present-day force in creating the necessary readjustments and in restoring "Normalcy."

It is the best friend of the Merchant and Manufacturer, who use it consistently, and the staunchest aid to the buyer in his praiseworthy effort to make his every dollar do its full duty.

The final emphasis, then, must be given, as the first was, these two truths—

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

IT PAYS TO READ ADVERTISING.

has overcome the commonest causes of tire trouble

Number 2

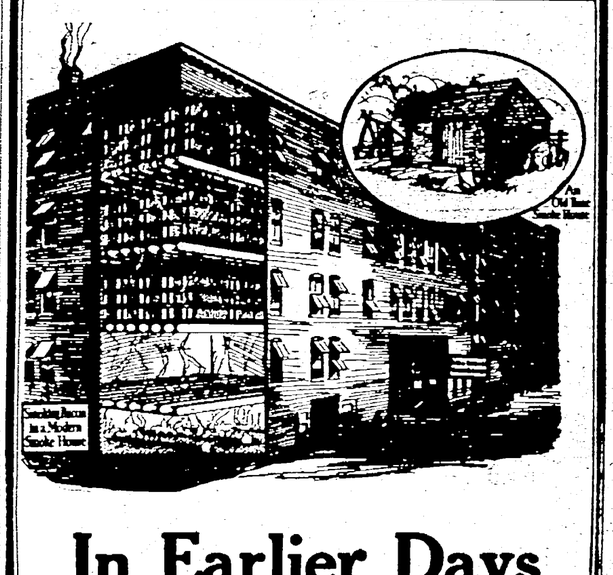

VIOLENT BRAKING

If brakes are violently applied, tires are called upon to check within a few yards the entire momentum of the car. Michelins stand up better than other tires under such punishment. The unique toughness of the black Michelin tread gives these tires unequalled wear-resistance. The extra traction-surface of the Michelin tread minimizes wear by distributing the wear over a greater area. And the extra thickness of the Michelin tread makes both these forms of protection doubly effective. The harder the service, the more important that you have Michelins.

In Earlier Days

In former times, when the town butcher or farmer himself dressed and cured the meat for the community, he could not always tell how it would turn out.

His methods were crude; partly traditional, partly guesswork. His tests were few and inconclusive.

Meat packing of today, as carried on by Swift & Company, has changed all that. It is scientific. Nothing is left to chance; nothing taken for granted.

The most painstaking care and attention are given to every step. Processes are worked out on a large scale with minute exactness. Methods are continually revised and improved. Cleanliness is insisted upon. Drastic, incessant inspections are the order of the day.

Swift products are uniform, graded according to quality.

Take bacon, for instance.

Swift & Company set out years ago to make a delicious, savory bacon which should be uniformly excellent.

The result is Swift's Premium Bacon, always the same, always famously good. Today this bacon, wrapped, sealed and branded, has circled the world.
